Middle Class Homes Helped
But Not Poor

By G.C. THELEN Jr.
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Housing Secretary George Romney says the government's home owners subsidy program is aiding moderate-income families at the expense of the poor—the original target of the legislation.

In addition, "irrationalities and inequalities in present programs" have encouraged construction of higher-priced, subsidized homes in areas where lower-cost ones would suffice.

Romney told the Senate Banking and Currency Committee Monday.

"A sizable proportion of the lower income group which Congress intended to be served by the program—those in the $3,500-$5,000 range—cannot, even with the maximum subsidy authorized, carry the basic monthly payment required of the subsidized family," he said.

By contrast, Romney continued, "it provides excessive subsidy to families in the upper end of the income distribution served by this program."

The program subsidizes all but 1 per cent of interest payments but requires homeowners to pay principal, maintenance, utilities, and other home costs.

Romney advocated an amendment that would pay a sizable proportion of these noninterest home costs for the lowest income families.

"If the present subsidy formula is not changed, the income group able to avail itself of the benefits of all programs will continue to shift towards those families with incomes between $6,000 and $9,000—the top of the income range made eligible by Congress," he said.

Romney also wants Congress to substitute flexible cost ceilings for the uniform ones that now apply for all subsidized homes regardless of location.

"The consequences of high limits is that builders and sellers tend to gravitate to the stated limits in order to maximize profits," he said.

"Whenever $18,000 homes are being produced for our subsidized programs in an area where adequate housing could be built at $15,000 a unit, we are using 17 per cent more of our limited subsidy funds than is necessary to do the job," Romney said.

FORREST CITY, Ark. (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller officially opened his campaign headquarters here Monday night and defended the recent raise given to welfare recipients.

"I never remember a welfare increase unless it was before an election," Rockefeller said.

Welfare Commissioner Len Blaylock recently announced that persons on welfare would receive a $6-a-month raise beginning Sept. 1.

A crowd of about 3,000 persons, mostly Negroes, attended the opening of the headquarters. They enjoyed free food and entertainment.

Rockefeller said he could deal with the problems of the state but many things had to go undone because of "tight money."

He did not mention the racial trouble that Forrest City had experienced last summer, but told reporters, "I am grateful we have been able to keep the line of communication open in both camps."

The Preakness was first run in Baltimore in 1873.

Legislature

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller said Monday night that contrary to political talk the legislature and his administration has worked together and that state finances were being administered wisely.

The governor made the remark on a public service program presented by Little Rock television station KATV. The program featured brief talks by the 13 candidates seeking the governor's office this year. They are Republicans Rockefeller, James MacKrell, Lester Gibbs and the Rev. R. J. Hampton; Democrats Orval E. Faubus, Hayes McClerkin, Joe Purcell, James Malone Jr., Bill Wells, Robert Compton, W. S. Cheek, and Dale Bumpers; and American party candidate Walter Caruth.

Rockefeller who has been the target of the other candidates charging that he had wasted state money, pointed out that he could not spend money, that only the legislature could authorize expenditures.

He also said he was campaigning on his record "how far we have come and how far we can go."

MacKrell appealed to the elderly, showed pictures of churches he had helped to build and emphasized the plight of persons on welfare.

"If poor people stand together, wonderful things can happen to them," he said.

Hampton, the first Negro to seek the office since reconstruction said Arkansas had the chance to show the nation what advancements had been made in race relations because of his candidacy.

He called for "common sense budgeting" in state budgeting and state government" which he said would "take care of much of our problems."

Hampton promised no tax increases, said he opposed busing and that he supported a strong junior college program and better education for prison inmates.

Gibbs noted that he was the only candidate who was a member of Lions Club and a union member.

He said Rockefeller had made "false promises, built false hopes and had done everything he could do to ruin the state."

He said the only thing he could see that Rockefeller had done for the state was raise taxes.

He said he was for law and order, against the proposed new constitution, for higher welfare benefits, for overhauling the state Administration Department, and that he was against raising taxes.

Carruth said he wanted to be the "voice of the unorganized majority."

He said the state was confronted with a conspiracy between state and national politicians "to spend, spend, spend."

Bumpers said he dreamed of the day when young people would not leave the state for economic reasons, that there is a no-tax mood in the state, that the people distrust the fiscal policies of the present administration, and that the people are looking for a leader who can generate confidence and eliminate violence.

He said the prison system needed reform and he proposed establishing regional rehabilitation centers.

"We owe it to the prisoner every opportunity to rehabilitate himself and we owe it to society not to turn him loose until he is," Bumpers made similar remarks in a speech Monday at West Memphis.

Cheek said his primary concern was to defeat Rockefeller, "Thereby restoring the government to the people of Arkansas."

He said the only way to defeat Rockefeller was by uniting the Democratic party and "I'm the only one who can."

He promised not to raise taxes, to eliminate waste in state government, to promote industrial development and he said he was opposed to busing.

Cellar Tough Foe on the Crime Bill

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Emanuel Celler is 82 and his step is slow but the administration is finding him a tough nut to crack in its effort to move a controversial anticrime bill through the House.

From President Nixon down, administration officials have repeatedly accused Celler, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, of delaying action on the Senate-passed bill.

Republican congressional leaders and forces outside Congress also have tried to bring public pressure on Celler to act.

"I don't give a tinker's damn about the pressure," said Celler as he walked slowly toward the House, where he has served since 1923. "That bill is as full of holes as Swiss cheese. We'll bring out a bill, but when we do it will be a good one."

The bill is officially designated the Organized Crime Control Act of 1969, but it is better known as S.30, its number in the Senate which passed it 73 to 1 on Jan. 23.

It is really eight bills rolled into one, a massive legislative package aimed primarily at organized crime but containing many provisions that would make significant changes in established legal procedures.

The bill provides extra sentences of up to 30 years in prison for habitual and professional criminals and for leaders of organized crime. It also would make large scale illicit gambling enterprises, and the bribing of local officials in connection with illegal gambling, federal crimes.

One of its most disputed provisions would empower special grand juries to file public reports concerning misconduct of public officials even without sufficient evidence to warrant an indictment.

Other sections of the bill deal with witness immunity, grand jury proceedings, and the presentation of evidence and testimony.

It is some of the proposed changes that have attracted criticism of S.30 within the legal profession, and on which Celler's opposition is based.

"I don't accept a package because of its label," he said. "I want to examine its contents."

What Celler calls examining the contents his critics call "bottling up" the bill. The usual charge is that he has bottled it up for more than a year. When the mass circulation magazine Readers Digest made the charge in its current issue, Celler fired off a letter in reply.

He pointed out the Senate had the bill under consideration for a full year before passing it, while the House Judiciary Committee has had it less than six months. During that time it has reported out a bill authorizing $3.2 billion to fight crime in the streets, and also held hearings on S.30.

"If the Senate can take a year on S.30 why is the House supposed to rush it through?" asks Celler.

Stuttgart

on Mosquito

STUTTGART, Ark. (AP) — In an experimental mosquito spraying at sunrise this morning, airplanes covered Stuttgart with a malathion spray.

If the experiment works, the effects will last for 18 days and the city will pay the cost of 6,000. If the experiment fails, Stuttgart does not have to pay. The spray was furnished free by American Cyanamid Co.

The Marian Air Service and Mosquito Air Spray Inc., a Georgia firm involved in domestic and international mosquito and malaria control operations, sprayed the city.

The Stuttgart area is heavily infested with mosquitoes because of the rice field flooding, according to Gary Scott, head of the spraying project.

Two converted DC3s sprayed 1,000 gallons of malathion over the city in less than three hours, Scott said.

Scott said the spray also will kill roaches, flies and silverfish, but will not harm animals or fish.

Cambodians
Fight Way Up
a Mountain

By JOHN T. WHEELER
Associated Press Writer
PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Cambodian infantrymen fought their way up the jungled slopes of Mt. Kiri Rom Monday afternoon and recaptured key parts of the resort area 50 miles west of Phnom Penh, a military spokesman reported today.

Fighting continued on the mountain today, and the Cambodian command reported another force of about 1,000 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese smashed into a battalion headquarters 25 miles south of Kiri Rom. The spokesman said the attackers inflicted heavy casualties on the government force at the village of Srak Neak, then withdrew, carrying their dead and wounded with them.

The current Communist objective in Cambodia appears to be to shatter government units and inflict casualties to damage the morale of the Cambodian forces.

The heavy fighting west and southwest of Phnom Penh once again imperiled Highway 4, the capital's only link with the deep water port of Kompong Som and the country's only oil refinery, the military spokesman said.

Kiri Rom is 10 miles north of the highway. The military spokesman said the relief force of Cambodian mercenaries recruited and trained by the U.S. Special Forces in South Vietnam's Mekong Delta had retaken the main hotel and other positions.

The 300-man government garrison stationed atop the 2,000-foot mountain was overrun early Saturday with heavy casualties. There has been no official report of total casualties in the fighting, but the government claims enemy losses are high.

The military spokesman also reported more harassment of Government forces at Kompong Thom, 80 miles north of Phnom Penh. He said heavy reinforcement of government troops there continues as the Cambodian command prepares for a second major Communist offensive against the town, a provincial headquarters. Kompong

In Vietnam, the U.S. Command in Saigon announced the deactivation of two Air Force squadrons as part of the fourth phase of President Nixon's reduction of American troop strength in Vietnam. The squadrons are the 431st Tactical Fighter Wing, an F100 fighter-bomber unit stationed at Bien Hoa air base near Saigon, and the 309th Tactical Airlift Squadron, which flies C123 cargo planes out of Phan Rang air base on the coast. They have a total of 690 men.

On the battlefield in South Vietnam, government forces claimed 47 Viet Cong killed in two battles south of Saigon in the northern Mekong Delta and said the South Vietnamese suffered only light losses.

Women's Rights Chiefs Plan Strike

By LYNN SHERR
associated Press Writer

The last time a nation's women went out on general strike they stopped a war.

The date was 411 B.C.; the war was between Sparta and Athens, and it all took place in a play.

This year, some American women are planning a similar action to try to help end another war—between the sexes.

The date is August 26 and it is for real.

"We're advising women to do their own thing to confront the unfinished business of equality," explained Betty Friedan, who calls herself chairperson of the event and who dreamed up the idea as former president of the National Organization for Women—NOW.

She lists the three nationwide strike demands: free 24-hour child care centers; free abortions on demand; complete equality for women in education and employment.

"The political parties, corporations, hospitals, churches, unions, mass media—all the establishment groups—have not yet really felt the urgency and power women have as 53 percent of the population," Mrs. Friedan said.

"The strike should make visible the sheer fact of this oppressed majority."

In her role as a modern Lysistrata—the woman who talked her sisters of ancient Greece into abstaining from their men in order to end the Athens-Sparta warfare—Mrs. Friedan is urging women to march, demonstrate, sit-in, rap, stop typing, stop vacuuming, stop buying and, if appropriate, stop making love. "To do something to visibly protest the discrimination against women."

The August date was chosen to coincide with the 50th anniversary of the day the 19th Amendment—giving women the vote—was ratified. In 1920, the occasion was celebrated with the last suffrage march down Fifth Avenue in New York.

Marches and demonstrations are planned this year in Manhattan, at Chicago's Civic Center, in downtown Milwaukee and in Buffalo, N.Y.

Although many of the more radical women's groups aren't yet disclosing their plans—they stress the surprise element—the scheduled activities of women in many parts of the country forecast a nonviolent, highly energetic protest of what they consider discrimination against women on the job and in the home.

Freedom Trash Cans will be set up in Syracuse, N.Y., for women to dump "some object of their oppression—an apron, a copy of Dr. Spock, hair curlers, whatever," said Karen de Crow, eastern regional director of NOW. "And I fully expect that someone will deposit her husband."

Television and Radio

By JERRY BUCK

ap television-Radio Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Many actors work out elaborate characterizations and theories about the parts they play, but Don Knight believes his has a theological concept.

It is not mere idle speculation. In addition to being a co-star of "The Immortal," Knight is an ordained minister and associate pastor of the North Hollywood Congregationalist church.

The new ABC show, first seen as a "Movie of the Week," stars Chris George as Ben Richards, a man with a rare blood condition that gives him everlasting life. But everlasting life doesn't mean everlasting joy, because Knight plays a villain named Fletcher who would like to cage the Immortal and sell his blood.

"There is a valid premise in 'The Immortal' in that there is a dream in every man that everyone really does live forever," said Knight, a handsome, blond Englishman who retains a trace of an accent. "It doesn't matter whether you're Christian or Buddhist or what, there is a tremendous drive in the soul of man for immortality."

"What Fletcher represents in the show is the subconscious feeling of people that they will be punished for feeling joy. Within the Protestant ethic is that deep down feeling that if things are going well you will be called to account. That is what Fletcher is. In reality, he is the alter ego of Ben Richards."

Knight, who is the drunken well digger in "The Hawaiians," combined acting and the ministry in England and Canada and later was a Methodist pastor in New York, Maryland and California. He said he became a Congregationalist when the Methodist bishops told him he had to give up either the theater or the Church.

He said he believes his congregation will be able to keep his screen and pastoral identities separated.

Knight asked, "Do you know why I'm an actor? An actor is basically a person who can make the dreams of mankind real. He takes the fantasies and the horrors and makes them real. And a minister is a man who can say these are what make you a human being. It's the same thing."

"The World of Charlie Company," a CBS News special at 10 p.m. EDT today, is a revealing view of the day-to-day life of ordinary soldiers in Vietnam and Cambodia. Virtually no combat is shown, but the soldiers experience daily danger, boredom, frustration, exhaustion and hardship. Correspondent John

Laurence interviews soldiers who question the war and shows instances in which parts of the company disregard the commander's orders.

Exemption Revocation 'Won't Hurt'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
An Internal Revenue Service order removing tax exemptions from segregated private schools apparently will have little or no effect on the operations of such schools in Arkansas.

"We are definitely going to operate a private school," said Dr. J. Neal Laney, president of the board of Nathan Bedford Forrest Academy at Forrest City.

Laney said he believed the school should be tax exempt, but "I don't think one member of our membership, even if they had to pay the taxes, would deny his child this opportunity."

The IRS order would remove deductions for honors to the schools and make the schools' income taxable.

"It's not going to bother us much," said the Rev. Travis Chase, referring to the Tabernacle Baptist Academy at West Memphis. "And even if it costs us a great deal of money we still would go on."

He said the money for the school came from tuition, which is a nondeductible expense for parents.

J. W. King, a member of the board of directors of the Delta Academy, scheduled to open at Blytheville this fall, said he did not believe the order would hurt the school.

"We put in our charter that we will not discriminate because of race, creed or color," he said. "We'll take anyone who can pass our accrediting committee."

SUMMER SAMPLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Lincoln Center will sponsor a series of varied musical evenings at Alice Tully Hall beginning June 12. The series, called "Tully Hall Sampler," will include seven evenings of unusual music, ballet films and a program of traditional jazz.

The Metropolitan Opera Studio will do three presentations in concert form, "Opera Composers in Nonoperatic Moments," "The Forgotten Schubert" and "20th Century Romanticism From France."

The two ballet films are "Giselle," based on the American Ballet Theater production, and "Coppelia" with the Vienna State Opera Ballet.

An evening of music by Weber, Brahms and Mendelssohn will be another evening and one will feature the World's Greatest Jazz Band.

Youth Meet Divided by Extremists

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.

(AP)—The World Youth Assembly was threatened today by a split over the presence of representatives of South Vietnam and Nationalist China and by charges of Communist domination in the assembly's peace commission.

Bedlam broke out Monday night in the commission on world peace when delegates voted to overrule a decision by chairman Najia Fawaz of the General Union of Palestine Students to allow representatives of the U.S.-backed Asian countries to speak.

The full assembly earlier had voted down leftist demands that delegations from South Vietnam, South Korea and Nationalist China be expelled. But opponents of the governments of those countries were in control of the peace group, one of the assembly's four commissions that are to draw up resolutions for the full assembly to consider.

Dennis Prager of the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation, an organization of American Jewish students, led a walkout of American and West European delegates. He charged that the commission was packed with delegates from Eastern Europe and their sympathizers.

Prager and his group presented a protest to the assembly steering committee charging undemocratic procedures in the commission.

Another American delegate, Dennis Michael Warren, 22, of Stockton, Calif., charged that attempts were being made to muzzle his delegation and rig the conference in favor of the Soviet Union. He told the commission the assembly had been "intentionally packed" and he had seen "delegates coached on the floors of the commission and assembly by representatives of their own governments."

Warren said members of the U.S. delegation are opposed to American policy in Indochina and in some other places around the world. But he added: "I oppose all aggression and all imperialism, and I find it curious that there has been no mention of Soviet oppression in Hungary, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia."

YOUTH ASKED FOR IT!

This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help Us!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush off.

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED FOR IT, care of Helen Help Us! this newspaper.

WOUNDED VETERANS NEED HELP

Dear Helen:

Several months ago a letter in your column alerted people about the forgotten wounded vets in U.S. hospitals. Later there was a chilling article in a national magazine, and then a television report.

It all adds up to this: Those fellows need our help! The nurse shortage makes conditions almost unbearable. Paralyzed men must wait hours to be moved or changed or dressed. Sometimes even a drink of water isn't available.

Could I use your column to urge all people with a little free time to go out and volunteer as veterans' hospital aides—that is

if they live close by? If not, send letters, not only to patients, but also to your Congressmen... but make the first cheering, the second pleading. If we can spend billions on a war, we can also spend thousands on hiring adequate aides, or getting word around so that people will volunteer as free helpers. —

CONCERNED

Dear Concerned: (And everyone should be!)

My letters are on their way. How about yours, readers? —H.

Dear Helen:

Can a girl really be happy, playing around? I used to think this was the way to be popular, and I was having a great life. The good old liberated kid, that was me! I didn't care for the guys that much, but it was a way to be with it. In my crowd, if you don't put out, you aren't asked out, and I couldn't stand staying home with only me to keep me company.

Now, I'm beginning to wonder what's gonna happen to me. I started playing around at 16. At 21, I'm —USED — UP

SECRETARY

Dear Used:

You've discovered (and believe me, not too late!) that "sex without love is like using a diamond brooch to open a can of beans."

Now that you've learned happiness isn't bought on the "lay-away" plan, the next step is a new life away from the people who won't let you start one. If possible, find a job in a distant town. If not, drop out of the old crowd and take time to get acquainted with your new self. You may like what you find. —H.

Dear Helen:

Every day my friends and I sit and listen to records and get into arguments or get kicked out of houses because we "make too much noise," which we really don't.

We're so bored we could howl, and summer is only a month gone. Why don't towns plan something for teen-agers to do which doesn't take a mint of money? —J.I.

Dear J:

For heavens' sakes, get off your lethargy and stop demanding that entertainment be served to you on a silver platter! If hikes, bike rides, touch football, picnics, swimming, fishing (there's a lake near you—checked), sing-ins at the park, or even throwing Frisbies don't appeal, then refer to the first letter in this column. Your newspaper carries the address and phone number of the local Volunteer Bureau. Sign on, and see how fast boredom dissolves when you get involved in helping others! —H.

P.S. . . . and mow the lawn!

National's 7-Year Reign Is on Line

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
CINCINNATI (AP) — Everybody wonders what kind of bounces the baseballs will take tonight in the first All-Star Game ever played on a wall-to-wall carpet. Everybody except Jim Palmer.

Palmer, whose strong right arm hopefully will provide the impetus for an American League challenge to the National's seven-year All-Star reign,
is more concerned about balls that don't bounce. And he has 148
good reasons to worry.

"How am I going to relax tonight with that line-up waiting for me?" the Baltimore Orioles'
pitching ace mused Monday after he was given the AL starting assignment opposite Tom Seaver
of the New York Mets in the 41st All-Star Classic.

Lined up against Palmer on the AstroTurf of glossy Riverfront Stadium, new home of the Cincinnati Reds, will be six of the game's most prolific long-
ball hitters—San Francisco's
Willie Mays, St. Louis' Richie
Allen, Atlanta's Hank Aaron,
Cincinnati's Tony Perez, Rico
Carty of the Braves and Johnny Bench of the Reds.

They have belted a total of 148
home runs this season while batting an aggregate .313.

"When I heard Seaver was pitching, I thought he might be an out man for me," Palmer said. "Then I found out he hit
one too last week."

Seaver, the National League's 1969 Cy Young Award winner,
hit his first major league home
last Thursday night while beating Montreal for his 14th victory of the year. He has pitched three scoreless innings in two previous All-Star appearances.

Palmer, 26, will be making his All-Star debut. He got the starting nod from AL Manager Earl Weaver of the Orioles because of the National's predominantly right-hand hitting lineup.
All of the NL starters swing
from the right side except shortstop Don Kessinger, a switcher.

Weaver, who intends to follow
Palmer with southpaw Sam
McDowell of Cleveland and right-hander Jim Perry of Minnesota, hopes the early
right-to-right ratio will be to his club's advantage.

Palmer isn't taking anything
for granted, however.

"I've pitched against some of them before," he said. "Aaron almost killed Brooks Robinson
with a line drive off me in an exhibition game. Bench hit a grand slam homer off me in the International League a couple of years ago."

"Somebody told me Perez hits the curve ball, hits the fast ball and hits the slider.
There's not much else to throw
him, is there?"

While Palmer should have his hands full against the NL deep-

six, starting with leadoff man
Mays, a perennial sparkler in All-Star play, there'll be no easy pickings for Seaver and his thus-far unnamed successors, either.

Power also abounds in the American League line-up with Harmon Killebrew, 26 homers,
Frank Howard, 24, Boog Powell,
23, and Carl Yastrzemski, 21,
the foremost fence-busters.

"There are great players in both leagues," said National League skipper Gil Hodges of the Mets. "There always have been. I think maybe the National League has just had more good days in All-Star games."

The Nationals will take a 22-
17-1 series lead into tonight's 8:15 p.m., EDT, renewal, which

Football's All-Star in Jeopardy

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Coach
Hank Stram of the professional football champion Chiefs indicates the Kansas City-College
All-Star game July 31 in Chicago may be jeopardized if differences between club owners and the National Football League Players Association are not resolved soon.

Stram said "We'll go on the assumption that we'll be able to play a game providing we have enough people and time, and providing we'll be physically
and artistically prepared."

Stram commented at the Chiefs training camp in Liberty,
a Kansas City suburb. About three dozen rookies checked into the camp Monday.

Team veterans held a meeting
Monday evening presumably to discuss their lockout at the training camp.

Stram said he was hopeful a settlement could be reached to allow the veterans to join the camp by Wednesday morning.

is expected to draw a capacity Riverfront crowd of 51,346, including President Nixon, and be seen by some 50 million television viewers via NBC.

It will be Nixon's first All-Star Game as President. He missed
last year's classic in Washington, D.C., sending Vice President Spiro Agnew to pinch-hit at the last moment.

The NL, which trailed 12-4 at one point in the game's 37-year
history, has won 11 of the last 13
confrontations, the last seven in succession.

"Sure it bugs me that the American League has come to be known as the inferior league," Palmer said. "I don't think the All-Star Game is a true indication of the leagues' respective strengths. But it's embarrassing to lose seven in a row."

"The streak?" Weaver replied to a questioner. "Yes, I think I'll mention it before the game."

"I was a coach in the last year's game and I saw the National League go to work early
with those big bats (on the way to a 9-3 romp). I know there were pretty disturbed about it."

Williams Will Miss All-Star

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Despite a
.317 average, 26 home runs and 80 runs batted in, don't look for Billy Williams' name on the National League All-Star roster.

Instead of going to Cincinnati
Monday, the Chicago Cub slugger packed up, picked up Tom McCraw of the Chicago White Sox and headed for a Wisconsin fishing holiday.

Williams, who has appeared in four previous All-Star games,
was truly a victim of circumstances.

The Cub double play combination of Don Kessinger and Glenn Beckert was voted on the team
by the fans and Manager Gil Hodges of the New York Mets
had to make a tough choice.

He could have taken Williams
or teammate Jim Hickman, who
in nine years never came close to making an All-Star team.
Hodges chose Hickman at the apparent expense of Williams.

Cub Manager Leo Durorher
chose not to get in on any controversy and said "Williams is some kind of player who is having some kind of a year and I'm just tickled pink that Hickman
made the team."

Williams, who has a current record streak of 1,067 consecutive games going, had mixed emotions on being left off the squad.

"Didn't give it much thought
a couple of weeks ago," said Williams "and really didn't care
to play because I need the rest.
Then I got into that hot streak."

"When I wasn't selected I looked at my credentials and thought 'What does a guy have to do to make it. I guess you could say I'm a little disappointed only because when you make the team you know you're
with the best."

"But on the other hand, I'm tired and I can really use the rest," said Williams. "I've got all the fishing gear packed and Tommy and I are going to have a lot of fun fishing."

Williams, whose 26 home runs tie him for third place in the major leagues and whose 80
RBIs are second only to Tony Perez of Cincinnati who has 90,
has had only one hit in seven All-Star at bats but that was a homer in 1964 to help the Nationals
score a 7-4 victory in New York.

Spotlight

NORTH LITTLE ROCK, Ark.
(AP)—Bill Brown became impatient with the plight of weekend golfers—the waiting and the long hours caused by crowded courses.

So, Brown built himself a golf course.
No longer does he raise cows
or horses on his land north of here. He grows tifton grass.

Brown, 47, got the idea for turning his land into a golf course after being stricken by a heart attack early in 1967.

"The doctor told him to play
golf, but he is an impatient man," Mrs. Brown said. "He got tired of waiting to tee off
on weekends and the long rounds."

"I got interested in building
a course and I talked it over with the family," Brown said.
"We decided we could do it, so we all pitched in and did."

"I got an aerial map of my place and began dreaming up holes," he said. "I just kept playing checkers with the thing
until I got the holes laid out."

Brown bucked the trend of building championship-type courses that challenge even the best professionals. His course is relatively short, about 3,000
yards, and plays to a par 35.

"We built our course trying to appeal to the ladies, kids and those who don't know a whole lot about the game," Brown said. "We decided the courses
around here were just too difficult so we tried to build something that would be enjoyable."

Construction began in the fall
of 1968 and the front nine opened last August. Brown hopes to begin construction on the back
nine this fall.

"We did this all out of our pockets," Brown said. "We wanted this to be a home-owned affair. Right now, everything
we get we pour back into it,
but it has been fun. The play
has been way beyond our expectations."

Brown says about 50 persons purchase green fees during each weekday and that the course accommodates about 300 players
during the weekend.

Other courses in the area
have had trouble with their greens, but the small, tifton
greens on the Pine Valley

S. Africa Strong in Tennis

JOHANNESBURG, South Af-

dent of the South African Lawn Tennis Union, returned Monday from the Paris meeting of the International Tennis Federation and said his country's position
in world tennis now is stronger than for many years.

Following the meeting, at

course are in excellent shape.
Brown has no secret.
"We decided tifton was like bermuda so we just go down
there and manage it like your front lawn," he said.

Ironically, Brown, a claims
agent for an insurance company, has only played the course about 15 times since it was opened.

"I don't ever get a chance to play," he said. "I'm always working. When I do play, the low 90s is probably my best."

Pro Grid Camps for Rookies Only

NEW YORK (AP) — There's
no agreement, so the training
camp gates will not be open to National Football League veterans, the owners say.

George Halas, owner of the Chicago Bears and president of the National Conference of the NFL, and Lamar Hunt, Kansas
City Chiefs owner and American Conference president, said Monday the camps would open on schedule for rookies—players who have not been on any team's active roster for a regular season game in any previous year—but not for veterans.

The action was agreed on after the NFL Players' Association instructed veteran players not
to report as scheduled.

Although there is a possibility of a strike by the players, negotiations on a new agreement between the players Association
and an owners committee, headed by Tex Schramm of the Dallas Cowboys, have been continuing. The two groups met in New York Monday.

The following reasons were given by the owners for banning veterans from camps until a settlement is reached:

—Each club will get the same amount of training time for veterans and the games' competitive scale will remain balanced.
—Allowing some veterans to report on their own would prove a disruptive influence.

It was decided to open the camps to rookies to give the
new men a fair opportunity to make a squad.

John Mackey, NFLPA president, had no comment on the Halas-Hunt statement.

Mackey, however, in a statement issued early today, said:
"Negotiations with the owners
are continuing but little progress has been made on the economic issues and on NFL player rights. We have communicated frequently with all player representatives in the NFL and they
in turn have been in touch with their respective team's players."

"We have asked that no NFL
player report to training camp
until these disputes are settled.
I am pleased to report that word has been received from our player representatives that our membership is unanimously
supporting our negotiating team
and the position we have taken."

"The proposals which we have presented and our total approach
to negotiations have been reasonable. However, we intend to stand firm in our attempt to secure a fair settlement
regarding issues which will have a long-range impact on all NFL players. We have, as I said, made our proposals. Now it is up to the owners to respond."

Baseball has adopted a new logo as an identifying symbol. It
is called bannermark and is
shaped like a ball in flight, incorporating a red, white and
blue color scheme.

The symbol appears on a trophy awarded by Commissioner
Kuhn to Hank Aaron, the National League's starting right
fielder, as most popular player
in the All-Star poll, Aaron
amassed more votes than any
other player in balloting by the fans.

Another trophy, also carrying
the symbol, will be awarded to
the most valuable player in tonight's game.

Secret Service agents spent
most of Monday preparing for
the visit to the game of President Richard M. Nixon. Another
expected visitor won't get nearly as much attention until she
actually shows.

Cincinnati Nostalgic Name for F. Robinson, Star of 2 Leagues

CINCINNATI (AP)—Frank
Robinson was standing in Riverfront Stadium, site of tonight's 41st All-Star Baseball Game, but his thoughts kept drifting to Crosley Field.

"It's great to be back," said
the Baltimore Orioles slugger, a star with the Cincinnati Reds
for a decade. He will be playing his first game in Cincinnati
since the controversial trade with the Orioles in 1965 for Milt Pappas, Dick Simpson and Jack Baldschun.

"It would have been better for me though to be playing in Crosley Field," the only man to win
the most valuable player award
in both leagues said.

"You remember a catch you made there and a hit here in the old park," he said. The Reds left tiny Crosley Field for their plush 51,000-seat stadium June 30.

Robby admitted driving by Crosley Field to visit the Leo Cardenas family. "Just looked.
I didn't say anything as I drove by," he said. Cardenas, now a Minnesota Twin, was a Cincinnati teammate.

By HAL BOCK

CINCINNATI (AP) — News
and notes from the 41st annual
All-Star baseball game.

Most of the players who showed up for the National League's pre-All-Star game workout could be excused if they didn't recognize the manager.

That's because Gil Hodges
came out on the field wearing Cincinnati pitcher Jim Maloney's uniform.

The masquerade only lasted a little while. Hodges climbed into his familiar New York Met uniform as soon as it arrived with coach Joe Pignatano, who had caught a noon flight and was a bit delayed getting to the ballpark.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn
drew some of the best laughs at a Monday luncheon for All-Star players and press when he called Richie Allen to the dais to accept a memento of his selection to the team.

There was no response because Allen, like several other players, did not attend the luncheon. When the audience began stirring, Kuhn set them
at ease.

"It has no significance," said
the commissioner, smiling over the frequently absent Allen's absence. "He's in town."

Jim Palmer, the American League's starting pitcher, recalled the first time he faced slugger Johnny Bench, the NL
catcher.

"It was in Buffalo, I was pitching for Rochester in 1967. I struck him out the first time.
Then, the next time he came up,
the bases were loaded," said Palmer.

"Earl Weaver, our manager,
came out and said 'Just put it down the middle to him.' That's what I did and before Weaver
was back on the bench, Bench
had hit a grand slam homer."

Baseball has adopted a new
logo as an identifying symbol. It
is called bannermark and is
shaped like a ball in flight, incorporating a red, white and
blue color scheme.

The symbol appears on a trophy awarded by Commissioner
Kuhn to Hank Aaron, the National League's starting right
fielder, as most popular player
in the All-Star poll, Aaron
amassed more votes than any
other player in balloting by the
fans.

Another trophy, also carrying
the symbol, will be awarded to
the most valuable player in to-
night's game.

Secret Service agents spent
most of Monday preparing for
the visit to the game of President Richard M. Nixon. Another
expected visitor won't get nearly as much attention until she
actually shows.

Nicklaus, as the boxing buffs
say, will be a "fighting champion." He will play this week's Philadelphia Classic and keep going for another four weeks
without a rest.

"I played the best 72 holes of my life—from tee to green—at St. Andrews," he said following a nine-hour flight from London
to Miami. "No bad drives, no real trouble. My putting wasn't super. I used as many strokes
on the big greens as I did off them."

The greens at the St. Andrews Old Course average six acres in size, compared to three acres on United States courses.

Nicklaus feels his previous major titles came in such rapid-fire fashion that, "I didn't fully realize the importance. Then after going three years without such a victory, I am suddenly absorbing the 100 per cent meaning."

"It'll take me a week to unwind from this win," he continued. "I can't see how I'll be up for the Philadelphia tournament, but I'd like to be."

The ancient British Open trophy, bearing golf's most famous names of the past century, was still in two parts when the Nick-laus arrived back home. Tony Jacklin, who won the 1969 title,
had lost the key to its case and
officials had to force open the lock.

"I guess Tony didn't mean to lose it again," said Jack. "His name hadn't even been engraved
on it."

night.
A large ad in a local paper
Monday promised that Oorgan-
na will give "some lucky player
the kiss of his life ... and send him into a new orbit of life."

Manager Earl Weaver of the American League squad has no shortage of first basemen on his team. "That's one place I can make changes," said Weaver,
"I've got about five of them."

Intrepid Wins Over Heritage

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — So far, it's been smooth sailing for Intrepid in the observation trials for defense candidates in the America's Cup trials.

Intrepid ran its record to 6-0 Monday with a 9 minutes and 2 seconds thrashing of Heritage over a 19.8-mile course on Rhode Island Sound. The loss left Heritage with a 1-5 record, the same as Weatherly, which lost to Valiant, now 3-3.

The course was shorted by 4 1/2 miles Monday because of a light easterly breeze.

Intrepid, the 1967 cup defender, was to sail against Valiant today, while Heritage met Weatherly.

While the four 12-meter yachts were continuing their competition to decide who will defend the cup in September, the French representative, France, lost a 15-mile practice race by 1:45 to the American Yacht, Constellation.

France will engage in a series of races with the Australian yacht, Gretel II to decide the cup challenger.

Watch an expert play any game and it will all look so easy. The golf pro drives 250 yards or more and, if he doesn't land in the middle of the fairway, he doesn't seem to have any real trouble with the rough or sand-traps.

The dummy presented no problem to the Professor. He won the spade opening and promptly led a trump to dummy's king. Then he played back a trump and played low from his own hand. This play is known as the obligatory finesse. Had West started with just ace and one trump, he would have had to play the ace. As it was, West won with the jack, cashed the ace of trumps and the spade queen and continued the spade jack.

The Professor ruffed. So far the play had been perfectly normal. The Student, who had seen the four diamonds in the East hand, expected his hero to play out his last trump and then wind up explaining that the four-one diamond break had made it impossible to bring home the contract but, much to the Student's surprise, the Professor played his king of clubs, led a club to dummy's ace and ruffed a third club.

East had discarded a spade on the third trump and a club on the third spade, so the three rounds of clubs had established dummy's last club as a winner.

The obligatory finesse hadn't helped but the automatic squeeze had been there all the time. As the Professor explained, the key had been for him to discard a diamond, not a club, from dummy on the third spade lead to retain the four clubs as a threat against poor East.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Peculiar Patents

Could you get a patent on an alarm clock that squirts cold water down a sleeper's neck? A man in Chicago did.

What about a balloon drawn through the sky by eagles? Or a stickpin made of candy, to be eaten after use? Or an automatic hat tipper for lazy gentlemen? These, too, all won patents.

To the inventor's neighbors, such ideas might seem pretty silly. And our patent law does say that, for an idea to be patentable, it must be "useful."

However, in deciding what is useful, the law is very tolerant indeed. The law remembers (even if the neighbor's don't) that people laughed too at Alexander Graham Bell's first telephone and at the Wright brothers' first airplane.

True, you cannot get a patent on something that has no use at all. For example, an inventor claiming to have created a "perpetual motion machine" was turned down on this ground. The ruling pointed out that the machine could not possibly work, because it was contrary to the laws of nature.

Nor can you patent a device which is useful only to do evil. Thus, a court rejected a patent for a method of faking the appearance of tobacco leaves for the purpose of making them look better than they really were.

The judge said:

"Congress did not intend to

DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Best to Seek Cause Of Uterine Bleeding

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—I am a mother, 21. Over a year ago I started spotting blood. My doctor isn't very concerned about it. What could cause it and what do you advise?

A—Possible causes include erosion of the uterine cervix, uterine polyps, endometriosis and fibroids. It may or may not be serious. In any case, the cause should be determined.

Q—What are the symptoms of cancer of the uterus?

A—Spotting between menstrual periods is the earliest sign, but this doesn't necessarily mean cancer. A positive Pap smear would confirm the diagnosis.

Q—I have heard that if a woman has intercourse during her menstrual period she will get cancer of the uterus. Is this true?

A—Although intercourse at this time is normally avoided, I know of no evidence that it would predispose to cancer.

Q—I am going through the menopause. My doctor says he should do a D and C. What is this and what is it for?

A—A dilatation and curettage is a scraping of the uterine wall to remove polyps and other causes of uterine bleeding.

extend protection to (inventions) which confer no other benefit upon the public than the opportunity of profiting by deception and fraud. The invention must be capable of some beneficial use as distinguished from a pernicious use."

But for most inventors, the test of usefulness can be passed without too much trouble. The law generally takes the same optimistic attitude that Benjamin Franklin once took when he was asked:

"What is the use of this new invention?"
Franklin's reply was:
"What is the use of a new-born child?"

Missile Improved by Soviet

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet tests this year indicate the Russians have improved the accuracy of their SS11 intercontinental ballistic missiles, defense sources say.

Officials stopped short of saying the SS11 had become a serious threat to the United States' own ICBM—the Minuteman—but they strongly suggested it has progressed in that direction. The information became available as controversy mounted over whether the Soviets had stopped building new missile sites recently, perhaps to enhance chances for agreement on nuclear arms limitation.

Jonathan Bingham, D-N.Y., claimed in the House Monday he has information that the Russians refrained from building any new SS9 missile sites for the nine months before June.

Defense officials contend these reports support Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird's flat statement last week that Soviet missile "momentum has not slowed down" and that the Russians pushed ahead with new starts both after U.S.-Soviet arms limitation talks opened in Helsinki last November and since those negotiations resumed in Vienna in mid-April.

Although the SS9 with its multi-warhead has been billed by the Nixon administration as the chief threat to U.S. minuteman missiles in a surprise attack, the SS11 and the SS13 are regarded by military experts as part of the potential danger to the U.S. land-based deterrent force.

There is no evidence yet the Russians are developing multiple warheads for the SS11s and the SS13s.

Wet-Dry Fight Puts Candidates on Spot in Bradley, Ashley

By KATHY GOSNELL
Pine Bluff Commercial
WARREN, Ark. (AP) — The temperance issue in Bradley County has catapulted to lead place among the issues facing the candidates for state representative, Position 1, District 42.

The district covers Bradley and Ashley counties, both of which are dry.

Country clubs in both counties have mixed-drink permits. Issuance of the permits aroused no flicker of public interest or opposition.

However, a permit application by Garner T. Culppepper of Warren has thrown Warren "drys" into a frenzy. The granting of the permit by the state Alcohol Beverage Control Board did nothing to soothe their anger.

Along with passing the hat last week for money to begin a court fight against Act 132 of 1969, the mixed law, the "drys" put their state representatives on the spot.

The incumbents—State Reps. John M. Lipton of Warren and N. B. (Nap) Murphy of Hamburg—attended a rally recently sponsored by the newly organized Bradley County Christian Civic League.

Lipton, a leader in the league, drove to Little Rock with the opponents to Culppepper's permit in a futile attempt to have the permit rescinded.

Lipton has no opposition for re-election. Murphy, 48, who faces a Democratic opponent in the primary, delivered an indignant diatribe against Act 132 and pledged his efforts to repeal the law.

Both voted against the drink

Revive Bill to Weaken Meat Control

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer advocates, who relaxed after apparently sidetracking a bill they contend would weaken meat inspection, are regrouping with major packers and union meat cutters to fight the measure again after its revival by Sen. Charles McC. Mathias.

Mathias, R-Md., contends the measure would upgrade inspection standards.

His proposal would permit interstate meat shipments by packing plants operating under state inspection systems which the U.S. Department of Agriculture has declared "at least equal" to federal standards. Only federally-inspected meat can now move interstate. The Senate rejected 52 to 19 in 1968 a proposal giving the same privilege to state-inspected poultry slaughterhouses. The Senate Agriculture Committee held hearings earlier this year but did not act on Mathias' original bill, which would apply to the 15 per cent of the nation's red meat supply not shipped across state borders.

Last Thursday Mathias presented his proposal as an unscheduled amendment to the agriculture appropriations bill. It passed by voice vote.

The amendment still faces a House-Senate conference.

Since Sens. Spessard L. Holland, D-Fla., and Roman L. Nruska, R-Neb., top men on the Senate subcommittee, gave the go-ahead for Mathias' move and will head the Senate conference, opponents of the amendment are concentrating on the possible House conference.

The Meat Cutters, the Consumer Federation of America and the American Meat Institute—which represents big packers—fought the bill earlier this year. The National Independent Meat Packers and the American Farm Bureau supported it.

Since the U.S. Department of Agriculture has approved so far the meat inspection programs of only Maryland, Florida and California, Mathias concludes the federal government is demanding standards stiff enough to warrant interstate shipments of state-inspected meat.

Erma Angevine, executive director of the consumer federation, in a letter to House members, said the accreditation of only three states illustrates it's too early to tinker with the two-year-old wholesome Meat Act.

Mathias, who also gained Senate approval of an additional $10 million in grants for state meat inspection programs, contends the money and the incentive for the right to ship products interstate would upgrade standards.

Patrick E. Gorman, executive secretary of the union, disagrees. "There will be variations in regulation and enforcement from state to state and between various state programs and the federal program," he said.

"The firms operating under the easiest inspection system make the most money and are able to drive out firms operating under stricter systems," said his letter to House members. "A downward spiral results, in which the consumer is the great loser."

Widner said the governors thought the national commission concept should particularly apply to urban growth policies and problems of the environment.

The commission, in existence since 1965, approves federal grants only after the states and local governments have submitted detailed plans to develop a region.

The governors believe the concept has worked in starting Appalachia, one of the poorest regions in the country, back on the road to economic recovery.

They point to cities and counties that have banded together to form local development districts to make plans for federal aid projects.

In many other federal programs, Widner said, local regions apply for federal funds to support a project without regard to the impact it might have on a nearby area.

Nixon called for some of his top advisers to attend the session, including Labor Secretary James Hodgson, Agriculture Secretary Clifford Hardin, Assistant Treasury Secretary Murray Widenbaum, and top presidential aides.

The President, who missed last year's game between the American and National League all-stars, planned to throw out a first ball for the National League and another for the American League.

Sally Steward of Fayetteville held a three-stroke lead Monday after the first round of the state girls golf tournament.

Miss Steward had nines of 39 and 38 for a six-over-par 77 at the Fayetteville Country Club course to lead Debbie Ault of North Little Rock who shot an 80.

Rise Alexander of Hot Springs had an 81. Minday Wilson of Hot Springs was next at 82 and Vicky Carson of Little Rock had an 83.

Lugene McNeill of Fort Smith leads the first flight with an 88. Next is Millie Walker of North Little Rock at 95, followed by Lucy McNair of Fayetteville with 98 and Tanna Lee of Fort Smith was a 100.

May Require Bids on Oil Exploration

By JOHN KAMPS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposal to require competitive bidding for oil exploration leases on all federal lands in Alaska is expected to spark a Senate fight over $500 million proposed mineral royalty payments to Alaska natives.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Interior Committee, Monday offered the amendment to the native land claims bill.

Opponents, who want exploration leases for areas with no proven oil reserves made under a 1920 mineral leasing law requiring only nominal annual payments, have threatened to fight the amendment by attempting to eliminate the proposed $500 million payment proposal.

Oil companies paid nearly $1 billion to Alaska last year when North Slope drilling rights were auctioned off.

The Interior Committee, by a close vote, had struck from the land claims bill a provision to permit competitive bidding for leases on tracts on which the government would retain mineral rights.

Jackson contends millions of dollars may be lost if applicants are permitted to obtain leases under the 1920 mineral leasing law.

Opposition also exists to a provision of the bill which would give Alaska natives $500 million in royalties from oil and other mineral production on public lands of the state by imposing an overriding 2 per cent royalty.

The bill calls for royalty payments until $500 million had been paid—in addition to $500 million appropriated over 12 years.

The bill also would return over 10 million acres of land to the 55,000 Alaskan Eskimos, Aleuts and Indians.

The $1 billion would be used by native agencies for investment, business and other projects, and loans and grants for welfare, education, job training and other purposes.

The bill would give about 5.9 million acres of land to about 200 native villages, at the rate

American Accuses S. Vietnam of Harshly Treating Prisoners

WASHINGTON (AP) — An American consulting engineer who says he was imprisoned illegally in Saigon has accused South Vietnamese authorities of subjecting prisoners to brutal and harsh treatment.

Robert N. Harms, 53, also accused the U.S. Embassy of refusing to help when he was jailed on what he described as a false charge of profiteering in the South Vietnamese money market.

At a news conference, Harms said Monday that he spent 11 months in Chi Hoa prison in Saigon and knew one American who had lime thrown in his face.

Food was inadequate, he said, adding that he lost 50 to 60 pounds before bribing his way out of prison. In addition, he said, sanitation facilities were nonexistent and prisoners were required to wash in an old horse trough.

Harms also claimed that in the basement "there are torture chambers—they call them punishment cells" in which prisoners were sometimes chained in uncomfortable positions.

He said there always were between six and 15 Americans held at the 6,000-man prison on charges ranging from money profiteering to passport irregularities, robbery and rape.

He said his own arrest came shortly before he was to return to the United States in 1968. He said he had accumulated some $12,000 in military payment certificates for his work during two years as a job supervisor for Pacific Architects and Engineers.

A few days before he was to return home, he said, he changed the script into U.S. postal money orders. Authorities discovered the money orders and confiscated them during a raid on his apartment, he said. Harms said he was told by a magistrate that he would have to pay $56,000 or be sent to prison. "I said I didn't have that much money," he said. "So I went to prison. I was being held for ransom."

He accused Francis Hall, second embassy secretary, of declining to help.

Meanwhile, informants in Saigon said the South Vietnamese government is considering destroying the "tiger cages" of Con Son prison off the Vietnamese coast.

Another team of government investigators toured the island prison today.

Saigon ordered the investigations after two U.S. congressmen said they saw several hundred men and women crowded into cage-like cells.

The Soviet Union accused the United States today of being "fully responsible" for the mistreatment of prisoners in South Vietnamese prisons. Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, said 47 U.S. servicemen are based at the Con Son prison and the Americans had trained jailers and police from Saigon.

O.B. Poland, for many years area supervisor for A. & P. stores and upon retirement the operator of Swaha lodge at Narrows Lake, has been on a motor trip through western Canada—and he sent me a copy of the local paper in another town named Hope.

It is Hope, British Columbia, population 2,751. The paper is the Hope Standard, a weekly printed by offset and every bit as good-looking as The Star.

The characteristics of a well-printed offset newspaper are the clarity of its screened photographs and the blackness of its text. Publisher John Reid and Editor Vernon Giesbrecht are doing a most excellent job with their Hope Standard.

A Hope citizen who didn't include his name mailed us a tear-sheet from the Dallas News of July 10 showing a picture of Miss Diana McGinty, national watermelon queen, eating Texas-grown watermelon while visiting Dallas.

Complains my unknown correspondent: "They never mentioned that Arkansas had the largest watermelons."

But Big Texas isn't about to admit anyone is bigger in any respect.

Seriously, the Dallas News played it right: Trumpet your own product—let the other guy hustle his own cakes and coffee.

But it was Hope and its big Arkansas watermelons that got coast-to-coast publicity on Glen Campbell's TV program—so we don't need the Dallas News. Also, I understand there is a chance the Glen Campbell watermelon feature will figure in a rerun before long.

Pilkinton Talks to Lions Club

City Attorney James Pilkinton was guest speaker at the weekly Lions luncheon Monday at the Town & Country restaurant.

Mr. Pilkinton was asked to comment on public problems, both national and local, that came under the job of maintaining law and order, by program chairman Hubert Thrash, who presented Pilkinton.

"Today's major public problems are of a social nature," said the speaker, "and of such a scope as to be classified as a revolution."

Pilkinton spoke of the Renaissance, the changeover from medieval to modern times, with people coming out from darkness to a revival of education and the arts, then the industrial revolution of the 19th century.

"The great changes can be both peaceful and violent, and no one seems to have the answers," said Pilkinton as he challenged business and professional men to seek the answers.

"The persons with leadership power and financial power are the logical ones rather than the less fortunate who need help."

On local conditions, Mr. Pilkinton said that, "Hope is one of the most fortunate cities in Arkansas and urged members to exercise their voting privileges in all elections."

Jury About Ready for Manson Case

LOS ANGELES (AP) — After questioning 141 persons in four weeks, defense and prosecution attorneys appeared ready today to accept seven men and five women as the jury to try the Sharon Tate murder case.

The only reservations about the proposed panel came from Irving Kanarek, attorney for defendant Charles Manson, 35-year-old shaggy-haired leader of a hippie-type "family."

Kanarek said no one on the jury represented Manson's "way of life."

Attorneys for Manson and three girl followers on trial with him already had exhausted their permissible peremptory challenges of prospective jurors.

So Kanarek tried another tack: motion to quash the indictments on ground of discrimination in the selection both of prospective trial jurors and the grand jurors who indicted the four defendants.

Superior Court Judge Charles Older dismissed the motion, saying he was satisfied there had been no denial of the defendants' rights.

Many potential jurors were dismissed after saying it would be a hardship to be locked in a hotel for the trial's duration—estimated at three to six months.

Several persons were dismissed when they said that pre-trial publicity surrounding the killings of the actress and six others had biased them against the defendants.

The proposed jury is predominantly middle aged. The youngest member is William T. McBride, a chemical reactor operator in his late 20s, and the oldest Alva K. Dawson, a former sheriff's deputy, who is 73.

All but three of the jurors are married, and, although all exact ages weren't given, the average appeared to be about 45.

Prosecution and defense attorneys still must choose six alternates who would replace any jurors eliminated by illness or other emergency during the trial. Selection of alternates was expected to last the balance of the week.

"We are going to use the same meticulous care in picking the six alternates," said co-prosecutor Vincent Bugliosi. He predicted that opening arguments in the trial might start next Monday or Tuesday.

Witnesses Rap Gasoline Service

Responsible service station operators are fleeing the business in droves, leaving the driving public at the mercy of money-hungry dealers, a Senate subcommittee has been told.

Charles E. Shipley, a Standard Oil dealer from Detroit, said service stations are being taken over "by the fast buck artists who employ only gas pumpers with no training, no knowledge of the automobile, and no instructions or desire to fill even the basic safety needs of the motorist."

He made the statement in remarks prepared for delivery today before a Senate antitrust and monopoly subcommittee hearing into gas prices in Michigan.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., who is up for re-election this year, described the Michigan situation as typical of other areas of the nation.

The hearings, Hart said, are a case study using Michigan's experience to give an insight to the industry nationwide.

Shipley testified the high turnover of station operators resulting from the exodus of responsible businessmen has left a strictly price operation "and the word service has been forgotten. The business is gasoline at a price and that is all."

He said the problem "is not just the price cutting of a few fast buck artists. It is the special deals that many suppliers have made available to some dealers."

One such arrangement is to induce a dealer to cut the price is the rent concession, he said.

The agreements on these programs are usually in the form of a rider to the lease so that they can be canceled at any time. This means that if a dealer's pricing does not follow the pattern the supplier wants, the deal is off."

Shipley said supplying firms own the vast majority of retail outlets and the few exceptions are usually second or third rate locations.

Police Break Up Riot in Milwaukee

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Police moved in with tear gas, smoke canisters and riot sticks Monday night to disperse a noisy crowd of about 1,000 youths in Milwaukee, Wis.

Four policemen and a youth were slightly injured and 12 persons were arrested at Water Tower Park, scene of an earlier disturbance.

The police went into action after the crowd began tearing down signs which proclaimed a 10 p.m. curfew. Many of the youths pelted police cars with rocks and bottles, heavily damaging some of them.

Police and young people had clashed at the park July 1 and 2 after area residents and officials of a nearby hospital complained of all-night noise in the area.

Meanwhile, racially tense New Bedford, Mass., and Highland Park, Mich., were relatively calm.

The comparative quiet in New Bedford came after Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., the nation's only Negro senator, appealed to area residents to "cool it."

Before making his televised appeal, Brooke met Monday with the city's black leaders and told them he would enlist federal and state governments in an effort to get better housing and education and more jobs.

You Can Get Just as Sick in Country as in Town, Says Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Some people buy or rent a weekend place in the country on the theory it is a healthy thing to do.

Others hesitate to because they think life away out there where the sidewalks end would be so healthy they simply couldn't stand it.

There is no real justification for this attitude, however. Research shows that—if you're at all trying—you can be just as sick or upset in the country as you can in the city.

For the connoisseur of new and interesting maladies, there is a very Pandora's box of ailments you can acquire that will win the respect of your friends and the grudging admiration of your enemies.

Let us examine a few possibilities:

Do you feel momentarily overwhelmed by the contrast between life in the country and in the city? Already you've got it—neophobia, the fear of newness.

Do your children start whooping it up and acting like little monsters? Then you're in the first stage of Demonomophobia, the dread of demons.

Disabled Miners Try Mine Closure

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Faced with a mounting stack of federal court restraining orders a handful of disabled miners pressed on today with their attempt to halt coal production in the rich, five-state Appalachian fields.

Fifteen mines employing some 5,000 miners in three states remained closed by pickets early today, but leaders of the Disabled Miners of Southern West Virginia conceded that unless the stoppage spread quickly it was doomed to failure.

The pickets were sent out to dramatize demands for liberalized pension and hospitalization, benefits from the United Mine Workers union.

Early reports today indicated that seven mines in southern West Virginia, four in eastern Kentucky and four in western Virginia, were shut down by pickets.

But no help had come from western Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio areas which supported a similar stoppage three weeks ago.

Ship Sinks in St. Lawrence, 9 Drown

MASSENA, N.Y. (AP) — A Canadian freighter heavily laden with pig iron and carrying 21 persons struck a shoal and sank within minutes in the St. Lawrence Seaway early today.

Nine persons were believed drowned. Seven bodies were recovered, the U.S. Coast Guard said.

"It sank in about three minutes," a survivor said of the 359-foot Eastcliffe Hall.

The ship's captain drowned. His body was one of the first pulled out.

Two women and two children, relatives and crew members, were on the ship and believed lost.

The ship went down so swiftly that crewmen, lowering lifeboats, were swept off the decks into the river, where they clung to debris. Two Ontario provincial police sped from the shore in a small boat and rescued 12 persons.

Survivors said they believed those lost were unable to reach the deck from below.

The ship ran aground on a shoal about six miles west of Massena. A first radio message said the ship was in no danger of sinking. Minutes later it was below water with only the top of its mast showing.

The weather was reported clear at the time of the grounding in the seaway's manmade Lake St. Lawrence.

Rockefeller Organization Formed Here

The Young Arkansas for Rockefeller organizational meeting was held last Tuesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Routon of Hope. They voted unanimously to organize an official Young Arkansas for Rockefeller club and affiliate with the State Young Arkansas for Rockefeller.

Jerry Pruden, of Hope, was elected as the president of the organization. He will preside over the organizational meeting which will be held on Thursday, July 16, at 7:30 at the ranch of Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Branch, located ½ mile on East 23rd Street.

"All young people between the ages of 13 and 25 are invited to join us at our next meeting," said Pruden. "We plan to make the Y.A.R.'s a vital force in this community and we welcome all those who want to join us and help us."

Jerry stated that the main purpose of the Y.A.R.'s is to provide the opportunity for young people to become informed on the issues and campaign principle in government. He also said that other goals of the Y.A.R.'s are to provide manpower for the governor and to act as a political training ground for future leaders and candidates.

At the upcoming organizational meeting a representative of the state Young Arkansas for Rockefeller will be present to officially charter the club and explain the complete Y.A.R. program. All interested young people are urged to phone 777-5596 or 777-4141.
